

Site Navigation

When users arrive to the site they are immediately brought to a featured stories page, which will have the bigger header and a smaller navigation bar than the rest of the site. On this page there will be a background with the logo overlaid, but the featured stories will be immediately apparent directly below. Other stories will be linked to in categories listed on the page or as part of a dropdown from the navigation bar stories button.

The next page the user will go to is the categories pages to look at different types of stories which is laid out in a grid format and has little blurbs underneath. The next prompt from there will be to look at different videos, which will be scrollable in order of recently posted. After that they may check out the submissions page, which will have a form in order for them to submit stories as well as guidelines and suggestions for what we are looking for. The final page they will check out is the about page that describes the group, shows who the people leading the group are and gives FAQs for the event and submissions.
